"NEW SILVER BILL WILL RESULT IN INTERNATIONAL CONFUSION"

Rene de Chabrun
Thanks to a law passed by the State of Maryland in 1784, bestowing American citizenship on Marquis de La Fayette and all his descendants as a reward for the Frenchman's aid in Revolutionary War, Rene de Chabrun, La Fayette's great-grandson has won his fight for American citizenship and the right to practice law in New York.

"EXCEEDINGLY RISKY IN AMERICA"

GENERAL SENTIMENT IN NON-SILVER STATES SYMETALLISM WORKABLE

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received May 28, 8.22 a.m.)

San Francisco, To-day.
Editorials in the "San Francisco News" and other Scripps-Howard newspapers, characterise the Silver Bill as a political gesture forced by the Congressional silver bloc, which may add another factor of fear and uncertainty to the business situation, which is now needing confidence and certainty.

The "San Francisco News," however, states that the Bill's feature of encouraging the international use of silver with gold as a monetary base is intelligent, because there is no doubt that some form of symetallism, at the suggested ratio of 75 per cent. gold and 25 per cent. silver for reserves, would be much more workable than the old gold standard, provided other major nations agreed.

"BUT THERE IS A RUB," THE JOURNAL CONTINUES. "NO SUCH AGREEMENT IS IN PROSPECT, AND FOR US ALONE TO ATTEMPT SUCH A SYSTEM IN MONETARY CONFLICT WITH THE REST OF THE WORLD WOULD END IN INTERNATIONAL CONFUSION, AND MIGHT BE EXCEEDINGLY RISKY HERE AT HOME."

THE EDITORIAL REFLECTS THE GENERAL PRESS AND PUBLIC SENTIMENT IN THE NON-SILVER STATES OF AMERICA.—UNITED PRESS, PER S.C. GOLD BAR CO.

AMERICA IN ZONE FINAL

Wilmington, Delaware, To-day.
America entered the North American Zone Final of the Davis Cup by means of a clean sweep triumph over Canada here yesterday, both Shields and Stoeffen winning their remaining singles matches without the loss of a set.
America will now meet Mexico, who drew a bye, before meeting Brazil in the Zone Final. They will then await the challenge of the European Zone winners—either France or Australia.
Lester Stoeffen, No. 3 ranking player, beat Nunns, who substituted for Walter Martin, by 6-4, 6-2, 6-3 yesterday, while Frank Shields, America's No. 1, overcame Watt, who replaced Marcel Rainville, Canada's leading player, by 6-1, 6-3, 6-4.

FOREIGN MONEY TRADE BAN

Mussolini Announces New Measure.

HOLDERS TO REGISTER

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received May 27, 10.50 p.m.)

Rome, To-day.
The Italian Premier, Signor Benito Mussolini, told the Chamber of Deputies on Sunday that the nations which had abandoned the gold standard would return thereto.

He announced that henceforth trade in foreign currencies would be prohibitable unless it could be proved that it was necessary for industrial and commercial reasons.

STOCK EXCHANGE CONTROL BILL.

House Margin Provision To Stand.

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received May 27, 10.50 p.m.)

Washington, To-day.
Conferees have agreed on the final form of the Stock Exchange Control Bill, and plan to ratify it in the Senate, to-morrow.

It places the control of margins in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board. All the other provisions are left in the hands of a newly-created commission of five, to be appointed, by President Roosevelt.

FAVOURABLE REPORT

"Not An Inflationary Measure."

GRADUAL INCREASE IN SILVER PRICE DESIRED

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received May 27, 10.51 p.m.)

Washington, To-day.
The House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee has reported favourably on the Silver Bill.

The Chairman, Mr. Robert L. Doughton, said that an attempt would be made to bring the Bill before the House this week.

Representative Dies told the Committee that the Silver Bill was not inflationary. "It simply means restoring the normal percentage of silver to gold," he said.

Credit inflation of U.S.$74,000,000,000 was at present possible due to the excess reserve in the Federal Reserve banks, he said.

TAX PROVISIONS
He supported the Bill's tax provisions, saying that it would prevent speculators from making tremendous profits.

The Treasury, he said, should not be forced to purchase a given amount of silver monthly.

"The increase in the silver price should be gradual, otherwise the United States is at the mercy of speculators and this will cause a re-adjustment particularly harmful to China," he declared.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

TARIFF BILL WILL COME FIRST.

Passage Expected In Senate This Week.

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received May 28, 8.22 a.m.)

Washington, To-day.
The United States Senate is expected to pass the Tariff Bill this week and will then immediately take up the silver Bill.—United Press, per S.C. Gold Bar Co.

SOCIALIST DISORDER

SHOOTING REPORTED IN VIENNA

"Down With Dollfuss" "Long Live Freedom."

SEQUEL TO NEW POWERS FOR SUMMARY COURTS

Vienna, To-day.

An extension of the powers of Summary Courts led to Socialist demonstrations yesterday evening in the working class district of Schmelz.

Cries of "Long live freedom. Down with Dollfuss," were raised. Shooting is reported to have occurred but the reports are not confirmed. Police and military have taken precautions against a repetition of the disorder.

It is understood that troops have also been sent to Syria and Carinthia, where trouble has broken out.—Reuter.

BOMB PLOT FAILS

Vienna, Later.

The Vienna police yesterday morning discovered a bomb-outside the Stock Exchange Building which also contains the offices of the official Austrian news agency, Reuter, and other world agencies.

The bomb is said to have contained 4½ lbs. of dynamite, timed to explode at 6 p.m., the hour when the official news agency begins work on Sunday.—Reuter.

$1.00 CASH SWEEP BOOM

"Through Ticket" Sales Record Shattered.

NEW ISSUE OF TICKETS DO NOT INCLUDE BIG SWEEP

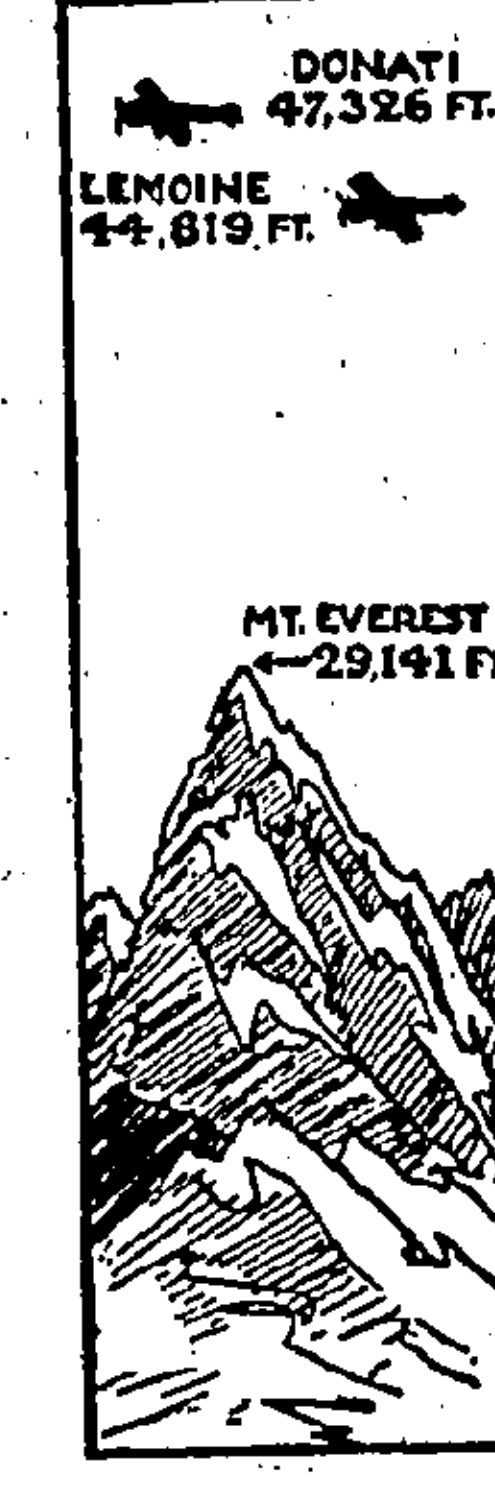

A preliminary result of the reduction of the Hong Kong Jockey Club Cash Sweep tickets from $5.00 to $1.00 is the enormous increase in the sales of "Through Tickets" for the coming Saturday's Sixth Extra Race Meeting.

Tickets numbered 1 to 400 were issued at $9.00 a time, to include one chance in the mammoth sweep on the Julling Stakes, but these tickets were sold almost before they came before the public, a large number of people, who could not afford a $50.00 "Through Ticket," being brought well within the limits of the new arrangement.

Tickets numbered above 400 are now being issued at $8.00 each, but these do not include a chance in the Julling Stakes, buyers desiring a chance in the big sweep now having to purchase their ticket separately.

All Goes Well With Two French Airmen On Record Attempt

Paris, To-day.
The French airmen, Codes and Rosel, who took off at 5.10 a.m. on Saturday in an attempt to break their own world's record for a non-stop flight along a straight line, have sent out a wireless message declaring that all is well. The message, timed from Nova Scotia at 11 p.m. (Summer Time) yesterday, states:—"We are flying over Nova Scotia. Flying is very difficult. Visibility nil. All going well."
Having crossed that Atlantic, the airmen now hope to cross the American continent, landing at San Diego.—Reuter.

Donati 47,326 ft.
Lemoine 44,819 ft.
Mt. Everest 29,141 ft.

Commandatore Renato Donati, World War ace and leading Italian aviator, is helped from his plane at Rome after he had broken the world's altitude record by attaining a height of 47,326 feet. The diagram at the left shows how Donati's record compares with the height of the Mt. Everest and the former record held by Auguste Lemoine of France.

DANCE CONTEST CRITICISM

Canvassed Voting Alleged.

SUGGESTION FOR FUTURE COMPETITIONS

The system adopted in judging the final of the Colony's first open dancing competition has aroused a certain amount of criticism, following the event at the Hong Kong Hotel on Saturday.

CORRESPONDENT'S VIEWS

[To the Editor, China Mail.]

Sir,—While applauding the enterprise of the local office of Fox Films and the King's Theatre on their novel form of advertising "George White's Scandals", by promoting a dancing contest in conjunction with the picture, I feel I must deplore the method adopted for the judging of the final result at the Hong Kong Hotel, on Saturday. It would not be too much to say that the "popular voting" has aroused indignation in certain disinterested quarters.

It must be seen that selection by such a method lies open to abuses, and indeed, there is a general opinion that some of the contestants, or parties interested in some of the contestants, rallied forces to force a decisive vote on much the same lines as a Government gathers support for some item of legislation. One alleged "bloc" was stated to be seventy strong. Assuming that these widespread reports are well-founded, it would be a sound plan, when and if similar competitions are held, to appoint a body of competent judges and thus eliminate the commercialisation of what should be a sporting event.

FAIR PLAY.

TURKISH ARMS STATEMENT

Regarding Dardanelles And Bosphorus.

LAUSANNE DEMILITARISATION CLAUSE QUERIED

Geneva, To-day.

It is learned from a usually well-informed source that Tewfik Rashed Bey, the Turkish Foreign Minister, will make a very important statement at the meeting of the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference, regarding the Straits of Dardanelles and Bosphorus, indicating that Turkey no longer considers herself bound by the demilitarisation clause in the Treaty of Lausanne.—Reuter.

ARRIVES OF DELEGATES

Geneva, To-day.

The Lord Privy Seal, Captain Anthony Eden, the United States delegate to Geneva, Mr. Norman Davis, and the Soviet Foreign Commissar, M. Maxim Litvinoff, have arrived here.

Mr. Norman Davis and Mr. Hugh Wilson, the United States observer at Geneva, had a lengthy interview with Mr. Arthur Henderson, at which the procedure of the Disarmament Conference was discussed.—Reuter.

13 PERISH IN BLAZING MOTOR-COACH

Spanish Tourists Meet Death In France.

FOREST SET ON FIRE

Bordeaux, To-day.

Thirteen persons are reported to have been incinerated, and four injured, when a motor-coach crashed into a telegraph pole near Lignieres (Landes), yesterday.

It is understood that the victims are Spanish tourists.

Telephonic communication with Bordeaux is interrupted as a result of the accident, but it is reported that the blazing coach set fire to the forest.—Reuter.

Mr. Alfred Morris, Commissioner of St. John Ambulance Brigade, will be the guest of honour at a tea party at Gloucester Building at 5.15 p.m. to-day, given by the Hong Kong Corps of the Brigade.

ALDERSHOT BLAZE

MILITARY CALLED OUT TO FIGHT FIRE

PLANES DIRECT OPERATIONS.

HEATH AND FOREST DEVASTATED

London, To-day.

Two Royal Air Force aeroplanes, hundreds of soldiers, and despatch riders, carrying messages from one part of the area to another, co-operated with firemen in fighting huge heath and forest fires near Blackdown, Aldershot, yesterday.

The flames covered an area seven miles long and five miles wide. A whole battalion of the second West Kent Regiment failed to check the flames, and contingents of Welsh Guards, Coldstream Guards and Life Guards, who were under canvas nearby, were rushed to the scene, while planes directed operations.

Owing to dense smoke, the soldiers wore gas-masks, while exploding bullets, dropped by soldiers during training added to the danger.

Six square miles of countryside were destroyed. The fire is now under control, but soldiers are encamped nearby as a precautionary measure.—Reuter.

Shorts of heavy white pique, with red and blue stripes outlining the sides and the collar and cuffs, red belt and buttons, and large hat of white pique with a red, white and blue band, complete the ensemble.

ON CHOOSING A TOOTH BRUSH

Bristle Brush Causes Gum Troubles.

ATTENTION TO INNER SIDE OF TEETH

THE choice of a toothbrush is a most important item in dental hygiene, and its use must also be considered if the teeth are to be preserved and protected from decay.

To brush the teeth violently with a hard brush is certain to cause trouble, if only that the gums and tooth margins will be unnecessarily irritated, and the germs of pyorrhea may gain access to the tissues in this way.

Soak Your Toothbrush.

The average requirement is a medium bristle brush, which should be soaked before use in a saline solution or mild antiseptic liquid for from half to one hour.

Give the inner side of the teeth as much attention as the outer, and rotate the brush over the entire surface of the denture. Rinse the mouth before and after the cleansing treatment, and if the gums are soft or sensitive add a few drops of myrrh and borax to this tepid rinsing wash.

The Proper Care of Your Hair

Some Valuable Hints Choice Of Brushes.

BRISTLING BRUSHES ARE NOT GOOD

Every head of hair, whether it be dry, oily or normal, should be given a daily brushing.

Your hair should be given at least one hundred "licks" with a good brush every night. Remember that you can't overdo brushing. The more you brush, the healthier your hair will be.

Choosing a good brush is an important step in a beauty routine. Specialists agree that a brush with stiff, short bristles isn't good for the hair, particularly the little, fine new hairs that are just starting to grow in. So select a brush which has rather long, flexible bristles and learn to care for it correctly.

Wash Brushes Open.

Your brush should be washed often with warm water and soap suds. If possible, let it dry in the sun. Naturally, it is more convenient to have more than one brush. Then you'll always be sure of having a clean one on hand.

Never keep a hair brush on top of your dressing table. It should be placed in a drawer, carefully wrapped in oil paper, or in a little box of its own.

Wipe your brush each time after you have pulled a section of your hair through it. In that way you will avoid putting dirt from one spot on your scalp back on another part of it.

Trim for Tennis

For an active game of tennis, Mary Carlisle, youthful screen actress, finds this one-piece frock of white pique appropriate both for comfort and for correct court attire. English pleated shorts and joined to the sleeveless blouse, while a wide belt is used around the waist.

KEEPING YOUR ARMS BEAUTIFUL

Bleaching Creams Soften The Skin

LEMON FOR YOUR HANDS

You can't expect your evening gowns to flatter you unless your arms and elbows are white and smooth.

Evening frocks are all-revealing. They simply won't hide discoloured elbows or rough, too-tanned arms and shoulders.

Bleaching treatments for your face can be used on arms and shoulders. Remember that the skin on your arms is not apt to be as tender as that on your face, and undiluted lemon juice can be used freely on them.

Use Bleaching Creams

The bleaching creams serve double duty. They bleach the skin, and soften it as well.

Your hand lotion plays an important part in fall treatments of arms and shoulders. Use it on them each time you apply it to your hands.

Elbows should be scrubbed with a little nail brush each time you bathe. If they are very discoloured, use a bit of pumice on them after they have been soaked in sudsy warm water.

Lemon For The Hands

It is a good idea always to keep a piece of lemon in your bathroom. Use it frequently on both hands and elbows.

A bottle of liquid powder is invaluable when you are getting of your summer tan, but it dries ready to don a party gown. Not only does it cover up the remainder on thoroughly and doesn't rub off on your evening wrap or four partner's dark suit.

Wrinkles And Face Lines

Should Be Avoided By Young At All Costs.

FACE CREAMS WILL HELP

There is much to be said in favour of lines on the face of a woman over thirty five. And much to be said against them if she is younger.

Lines and wrinkles naturally come with maturity and it is practically impossible to prevent all of them. Nor would you want to. A few lines on the face of an older woman add a lot of character and interest to her face. Some of the most beautiful older women in the world have many fine laugh lines around their eyes and the inevitable vertical lines around their mouths. One cannot imagine them being beautiful without those lines.

But when it comes to the younger girl, lines and wrinkles are an entirely different matter. You should take steps to prevent them while your skin is still firm and young.

Use Nourishing Creams.

There are nourishing creams for the dry skin. Dryness is one of the most prevalent causes of premature lines.

Why not shop around a bit for reliable nourishing and tissue creams? When you find one, plan to use it every night after you have cleaned your face. Leave it on all night occasionally.

Don't overlook the importance of muscle oils for the lines around your eyes. The oil should be warmed slightly, patted on the spots where lines may appear and left on all night.

TAKING YOUR "BEAUTY SLEEP"

Complete Relaxation Necessary For Good Health.

CHOICE OF A MATTRESS

Much of your beauty depends on the amount and kind of sleep you get each night.

The art of complete relaxation is by no means an unimportant one. And you can't relax if you take the problems and worries of the day to bed with you. Forget your troubles and try to think of something pleasant when you are trying to go to sleep.

Sleeping flat on your back is considered more beneficial than curling up in a knot or sleeping on either side. If you possibly can sleep without a pillow, do so. Your neck will be more rested if it has been flat on the bed in line with your spinal column and you are less apt to get that little hump on the back of your neck. But, if you must use one have it as small as possible.

A good mattress is one of the first requisites of healthful, restful sleep. It should be neither too hard nor too soft and must not be lumpy or sagging in spots.

Clean bedding and sheets that are tucked under tightly enough to obliterate wrinkles are more conducive to rest than wrinkled sheets and blankets that are simply thrown.

Always sleep with at least one window open. The draft never should be directly on the bed but the room should be filled with clean, cool air.

RAILWAYMAN IN A QUANDRY.

Stood In Centre Of Snake Nest.

Melbourne, Victoria. While a guard was holding a point lever during shunting operations at the Fernbank railway yards, Gippsland, Victoria, he had to choose between deserting his post and probably derailing a train or taking the risk of being bitten by a large black snake. His plight was made worse by the appearance of a second snake.

The guard, James Maylor, clung to the lever, at the same time making frantic efforts to attract the attention of the crew of an oncoming train.

Three men noticed Maylor's appeal for help, and ran to his assistance. They found that he had been standing among a nest of full-grown black snakes, nine of which the men killed. Reuter.

PARSEE FACES U.S. DEPORTATION

Comes Under Ban Against Asiatic

CLAIMS ROYAL DESCENT

Trenton, New Jersey. Dr. Dinshah Pestanj Framji Ghadiali, of Malaga, who in 1917 became a United States citizen after serving with the American army during the World War, may be deported, on the grounds that he is a Hindu and therefore comes under the ban against Asiatics. This was learned from Mr. Harlan Besson, District Attorney, who announced that Dr. Ghadiali would be given a hearing before Judge John Boyd Avis, in Camden, New Jersey.

Dr. Ghadiali, in his own defence, pointed out that he is not subject to the ban because he is descended from the Parsee Zoroastrians, rulers of ancient Persia, classed by historians as Aryans.

"The complaint," he said, "seems actuated by some idea that because the respondent was born in Bombay, India, he was therefore ineligible. However, on the obvious grounds that an Englishman born in Africa does not become a negro, the respondent born in India is a free white person and racially eligible." Reuter.

ENGLAND'S YEAR AT WIMBLEDON

Miss Helen Jacobs, the United States champion, will be the chief threat to the English women players' side. She has three times beaten Miss D. Round since Miss Round beat her in the semi-final at Wimbledon last year. But then, environment affects Miss Round more than any other player I know. She is at her best in her own country and, now that she has become accustomed to it, on the centre court.

Miss Jacobs is more placid and plays well in any climate, but her best is not as good as Miss Round's best. But Miss Round is not our only hope. There is Miss Betty Nuthall, who might stage a come-back, and no victory would be more popular.

Miss M. Scriven, the holder of the French championship, is capable of beating anyone. She has been practising hard throughout the winter and has materially improved that service of hers.

Miss K. Stammers has yet to learn more control, but it is hard to think of any rival who has more ace-winning shots than she.

Miss Mary Heeley, Miss Freda James, Mrs. Fearnley-Whittingstall, Mrs. M. R. King, and a whole array of others have good chances.

France has been experiencing rather a lean time in the production of good women players. That country will rely on Mme. Mathieu, who is always dangerous.

From Germany, Fraulein C. Aussem may arise again and give us all a fright. I remember her as the champion in 1921 in the absence of Mrs. Moody.

Fraulein Aussem must always be considered as a probable champion in any field. But I do not yield in my opinion that whoever challenges an English woman will win.

A DOUBLE VIENNA COUP

by Ely Gulbertson.

The Vienna Coup is a rather rare form of squeeze which involves the setting up of a high card in the hand of a player who is later to be squeezed. It is rare, indeed, that a hand presents an opportunity for more than one such play, particularly when there is a question of taking all the tricks by means of it.

However, playing in the Experts' Room of Crookford's Club, New York, recently, Mr. Walter Belnecke distinguished himself by making all 13 tricks on a contract to take 12 by establishing winning cards for both his opponents, Messrs. Hugh Jackson and Oswald Jacoby.

For a while the experts in the room were unable to determine just exactly what to name the play, although they knew it was good. Eventually the name was agreed upon—the Double Vienna Coup. The hand was:

1—Mr. Jackson was using a bidding system in which the Opening bid meant nothing as to suit, but indicated only the number of high-card tricks held. In this case, though, he was just making an out-and-out psychic.

2—Mr. Jacoby is also guilty of an out-and-out psychic, vulnerable.

Although his Small Slam was a lay-down, Mr. Belnecke was out for a maximum total of tricks. He won the Opening heart lead with King and experimented with two rounds of clubs.

The suit breaking, he proceeded to lead out three rounds of diamonds, setting up the Knave-Ten in Mr. Jackson's hand, and then another round of hearts, setting up the Queen in Mr. Jacoby's hand.

Mr. Jacoby split his equal honors on the second lead.

The clubs were then laid down. Dummy being left with three spades to the Ace-King. On the last club, Mrs. Jackson, with three spades to the Queen and the

SYNTHETIC PETROL PRODUCED

500,000 Gallons Annually In Pretoria.

ORDERS BOOKED AHEAD

Johannesburg. Artificial petrol is being produced in South Africa.

This is one of the implications of the commencement of operations at the by-products plant of the Pretoria Steel Works, says the Johannesburg Sunday Times.

Five hundred thousand gallons of Benzol, which is regarded chemically as among the highest-grade motor-fuels in existence, will be produced annually as part of the coke making of the "Isacor" undertakings.

The entire output for a considerable period ahead, says the paper, has been bought by a consortium comprising the big South African oil companies—with one exception. Details of the prices cannot yet be given, but it is intended to use the benzol for blending with certain higher grades of motor fuel. The supply will be rationed out among the interested firms.

By special arrangement the methods of grading and refining approved by the National Benzol Association of England have been adopted at Pretoria.

The size of the output is regulated by the coke requirements of the steel plant, in the making of which the benzol industry is an incidental. South Africa could absorb far greater quantities; and it is expected that before long the production will rise.—Reuter.

INDIAN AIRWAYS' NETWORK

Permission Sought For New Service.

COLOMBO TO BE LINKED

Bombay.

The Croydon-Karachi Imperial Airways weekly service has hitherto been extended only to Delhi, Calcutta and Rangoon in the easterly direction, and Bombay and Madras in the Southerly direction.

A regular air service between Bombay and Calcutta, a distance of over 1,000 miles will, it is expected, shortly be an accomplished fact, if Tata Sons Ltd. obtain the necessary permission from the Government of India.

Tata's who are operating the service between Karachi, Bombay and Madras, had an important conference with the Government of India recently and they propose to make a further application for the operation of the new Bombay-Calcutta route.

They also contemplate extending the service from Madras to Colombo.—Reuter.

Diamond Knave, was squeezed. He discarded a spade.

Mr. Jacoby, with three spades and the heart Queen, also had to throw a spade, whereupon Mr. Belnecke led a spade to the good suit in the Dummy, taking all 13 tricks.

Amusements

Cinema Notes

"ONLY YESTERDAY"—QUEEN'S AND ALHAMBRA THEATRES

An conflicting drama among women, who crave for love and men, who ever forget, is the general theme of Universal's current attraction, featuring Margaret Sullivan and John Boles.

All the frenzied excitement of New York's celebration of Armistice Day, November 11, 1918, is seen in "Only Yesterday."

The film, which was suggested by a book by Frederick Lewis Allen, the now famous author of "Anthony Adverse," is directed by John M. Stahl, the director of "Back Street."

Other notable stars in the cast include Edna May Oliver and Billie Burke.

"GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS"—KING'S THEATRE

"George White's Scandals," featuring Rudy Vallee, America's famous radio crooner and jazz band leader, is Fox Film's current attraction, now showing at the King's Theatre.

Fox's new musical could only be a success with such stars in the picture as Jimmy (Shunzle) Durants, Alice Faye, Adrienne Ames, Cliff Edwards, Gregory Ratoff, Dixie Dugbar, Gertrude Michael and George White.

In addition to the numerous songs and dances, the film is enriched by one of the tenderest love stories ever screened.

"SITTING PRETTY"—MAJESTIC THEATRE

"Sitting Pretty," film, with one or two catching songs in it, featuring Jack Oakie and Jack Haley, is Paramount's current attraction at Majestic Theatre.

The film is the story of two likeable song writers from Broadway who can write selling tunes, but who encounter difficulty because of the female element.

Ginger Rogers, provides the love interest, while Thelma Todd provides the laughs.

"WILD CARGO"—CENTRAL THEATRE

"Wild Cargo," Frank Buck's sequel to "Bring 'Em Back Alive," is RKO Radio Picture's latest release, now showing at the Central Theatre.

Buck's former sensational picture dealt largely with the constant struggle for survival in the jungle, but the present picture deals with the fulfilling of orders for circus, zoo, and carnival. The cargo consists of more than 100 of the strangest specimens that snarl his, and strike out to save themselves at the slightest opportunity.

"BEAUTY FOR SALE"—STAR THEATRE

Reminiscent of "Our Dancing Daughters" which, as a silent film, was the forerunner of a new vogue in screen entertainment, "Beauty for Sale," is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production in which three girls—Madge Evans, Una Merkel, and Florine McKinney, share the story interest.

Phillip Holmes, Otto Kruger, Alice Brady and May Robson are in the supporting cast.

"KONGO"—ORIENTAL THEATRE

Throbbing of war drums, the muffled beat of countless black feet trampling the underbrush of the African jungle, and a "white devil" in a wheel-chair, emphasising his commands with a long bull-whip. That is "Kongo," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer melodrama featuring Walter Huston.

In the feminine roles opposite Huston are Lupe Velez, and Virginia Bruce.

AUSTRALIAN SWIMMERS BY MISS COOPER

"Noel Ryan Should Win Titles."

BRITISH CHAMPION MAY SOON RETIRE

Interviewed in Colombo recently Miss Joyce Cooper, Britain's best woman swimmer, expressed high praise for the swimmers of Australia.

"For every one good girl swimmer we have in England, Australia has 25. I was amazed at the general high standard of swimming out there, but then Australia possessed so many advantages over others in her beautiful bathing beaches and swimming pools. The Australian climate and the outdoor life led by the people of that country combine to produce excellent athletes and in swimming Australia ranks among the world's greatest countries."

Asked whether she had met Frances Bull, the Australian Victorian Champion Sprinter who won the Victorian Championships in February, 1933, Miss Cooper said she had met this "star" at Brisbane in the Australian Championships and had been beaten by her. But after that Frances Bull, had a break-down in health and has had to give up swimming for a while, and that is why we do not find her name in the list of swimmers chosen to represent Australia in the Empire games in London next August.

OTHER FAMOUS SWIMMERS

"Who are the other great swimmers you met on the trip?"

"There were Bonnie Mealing and Edna Davey, two Olympic Swimmers and Champions of Australia. I met Bonnie and we had a grueling race with her. The judges gave her as finishing first but the time keepers made my time better. I believe it must have been a dead heat. Bonnie is a really clever swimmer and so is Edna Davey."

FOR THE EMPIRE GAMES

"Have you seen the names of Australia's swimmers for the Empire games?"

Miss Cooper had not done so, but when shown her the list she made some interesting comments on them. She said that she had not met Claire Dennis, who has eight Australian breast stroke records to her credit from 100 yards to 500 metres, while she also holds a world's record. She thinks that Noel Ryan, the Australian champion from N. S. Wales is a wonderful swimmer who should win several events at the Empire Games. Higginson and Clarke are also very capable swimmers, while Lesley Thomson is Australia's best girl diver.

MAY RETIRE SOON

"What are your plans for the future?" Miss Cooper was asked.

"I hope to take part in the European Championships before the Empire Games in August. They are building a new bath in Wembley for the coming games and I am told that will be the best in England. I may visit America and compete in the championships and then I think I shall retire. I feel I have had quite enough of competitive swimming and one cannot go on enduring this strain too long. I have enjoyed my swimming immensely wherever I have been."

Miss Cooper has won many British Championships and also titles in Australia, but she said she had never yet won a world's championship. She took part in the last Olympic Games at Los Angeles, but was unable to gain a single first. Last July, she had won the Women's Long Distance Championship, Chiswick, to Putney (5 miles 16 yards) in 1 hour 6 minutes 46.45 seconds.

AMERICA'S DAVIS
CUP SKIPPER

Agile Enough When
Over 40

R. N. WILLIAMS' FORMER PROWESS

Although now over 40, Mr. R. N. Williams, who is returning to Wimbledon as the captain of the American Davis Cup team, was agile enough to compete in the American championships last year. A survivor of the Titanic, in which his father, Duane Williams, was lost, he was one of the first Americans to volunteer for active service in the war. He was singles champion of America in 1914, defeating McLaughlin, who a few weeks earlier had beaten both Brookings and Wilding in the Davis Cup challenge round. A decade later, with Vincent Richards, Williams formed one of the strongest doubles combinations the world has ever seen. Wimbledon saw his genius as a doubles player when, with C. S. Garland, he defeated Tilden and Johnston in 1920.

TRIUMPH FOR HARE ON HARD COURTS

WITHDRAWAL OF MRS. KING
Mrs. King's withdrawal from the women's singles through a strained arm—and she had been battling hard in the inter-county matches at the week-end—was announced early. Her retirement may ease the path of others.

The three Australian players were watched with interest, but it would be unfair to judge their standard on such brief acquaintance. Miss Hartigan's fore-hand drive looked as if it could be most dangerous on a turf surface. Her opponent, under pressure from its speed, would have less opportunity of returning the ball in the direction of Miss Hartigan's back-hand, which is a wing of considerably less resistance. Miss Hartigan won her match in two sets.

Mrs. Molesworth and Mrs. Hopman lost theirs by the same score, but Mrs. Molesworth made a brave fight against Mrs. Edwards, while Mrs. Hopman extracted the best from Mrs. Whittington. Miss James was in jeopardy against Miss Ford, who proved as steady as herself and perhaps a little more inclined to chase forlorn hopes. But the most versatile player scrambled out in the twelfth game of the final set.

JAPAN-AUSTRALIA DAVIS CUP TIE

The Australian Lawn Tennis Association has decided to send a cable to Mr. Youdale, the manager of the Australian Davis Cup team in England, and J. H. Crawford (the captain) telling them to use their discretion as to whether they play their second round Davis Cup tie against Japan in England or in France, if the Wimbledon or Queen's Club courts are not available.—Reuter.

She is practising for the French championships at Auteuil, Paris, next month.

"You must remember that I am a respectable old lady of 28, and I may find it difficult to regain my form in time for the French championships."

"In this case I shall not play but shall go on practising for Wimbledon. Oh, yes; I shall play at Wimbledon."

MELVILLE MUST DECIDE ON BOWLEY'S SUCCESSOR

HOBBS WANTS FOUR CENTURIES

(By THOMAS MOULT)

CAN 'Sussex reproduce the fine form they showed last August, when they beat Yorkshire? How long will it take Jack Hobbs to score the four centuries needed by him to bring his world record-making total of three-figure innings to two hundred?

Such are two of the questions arising out of this season's cricket in the south that should cause as much interest as the destiny of the 'Ashes.' There seems no reason why Sussex should not answer the first in the affirmative, for few counties concluded last year's campaign so definitely on the upgrade.

They have triumphed gallantly over the melancholy circumstance of K. S. Duleep Singh's enforced retirement from the game, and although R. S. G. Scott will be unable to continue in the captaincy, he hopes to play alongside his successor, A. Melville, in many matches.

Melville is the South African all-rounder who captained Oxford University for two years, and one of the first decisions he is called upon to make is that of selecting a batsman to open the innings with John Langridge in place of Bowley. It is probable that James Langridge will be his brother's partner, and he has well earned the distinction, for he is now not only the best all-rounder in the team, but one of the best in the land.

The Opening Bowlers

Tate and J. H. Cornford will pave the way in the attack for James Langridge's change-bowling, and it is good to hear from Tate himself that he is fitter than he has been for several seasons. Wensley, Pearce and Nye—two newcomers of much promise from the heart of the county—are additional bowlers, and as the county's batting strength is as great as ever, Yorkshire look like being faced with a fine threat if only Sussex show a little more of the necessary fighting spirit.

Jack Hobbs will be available for nearly half of the Surrey fixtures, and he is fit enough to make certain of those four centuries needed to complete his second hundred of hundreds. But whatever his final achievement may be the county has honoured it already. Since last season special entrance gates have been erected which will be known as the "Jack Hobbs Gates."

All the other professionals of last season are available, and E. A. Watts, the all-rounder, has changed his status and joined them. E. R. T. Holmes, the Oxford double-blue, will captain the side, and H. M. Garland-Wells, another Oxford Blue at both cricket and football, will assist him. D. R. Jardine, M. J. C. Allom, F. R. Brown, and S. A. Block cannot play often, and P. G. H. Fender's appearances will be rather less regular than usual.

Middlesex Optimism

Neither Surrey nor Middlesex inspire much hope of championship laurels coming back to London. Nevertheless, Middlesex are more optimistic than they have been for

Two Captains

The explanation is simple. Let by two captains, T. N. Pearce in the first month and D. R. Wilcox late, the players have responded with a keenness and enthusiasm which did not desert them if the day went against them. This double-captaincy arrangement will be continued, and all the leading batsmen will support it. The recovery of their best form by O'Connor and Cutmore has been one of the most encouraging features.

Another is that of Nichols' restoration to Test-match rank as batsman and bowler alike. But the whole-heartedness of Nichols with the ball must not be exploited unduly. He may be saved from overwork by K. Parnes if the amateur fast bowler is able to play a little often. Other amateurs who will turn out frequently are C. Bray, A. G. Daer, H. J. Palmer and H. T. O. Smith.

Leyton will see county cricket no more. The Essex headquarters have been moved to Chelmsford, and Southend, Colchester, Clacton, Brentwood and Westcliff will share the fixtures.

Problems For Kent

Kent's uncertainty in recent seasons may be aggravated by the retirement of Hardinge, for Woolley and Freeman must also be replaced sooner or later—with three centuries this summer Woolley would reach W. C. Grace's great aggregate of 126—and although Todd has vastly improved as a left-handed batsman, there is no sign yet of a successor to Freeman. C. S. Marriot will only be available during the holidays.

Nevertheless, the old delightful traditions of Kent cricket are sure to be maintained through the captaincy and vice-captaincy of A. P. Chapman and B. H. Valentine. Ames may start slowly after his operation, so that much will depend in the early matches on the batting of Todd and Ashdown.

Fairservice is no longer available, but several young players still cause hope, Fagg, Watt and Blunden notably—the last two named are bowlers of pace—and D. Wright has shown sufficient skill with his varied break at 18 to be regarded as uncommonly promising. Mr. G. de L. Hough has been appointed manager to succeed the late Lt.-Col. Troughton.

Gloucester Improvement?

Until the concluding month of badly as they had done in the previous campaign, but they finished last season Gloucestershire did as well, and there is every hope that they are about to turn over a new leaf—on, rather, recover their lost power, for it must not be forgotten that they were runners-up to Yorkshire in the championship

PRESENTATION BY S.C.C. MEMBERS

A distinct asset to cricket in Shanghai was provided, when Brig.-Gen. E. B. Macnaghten opened the new pavilion and club house of the Shanghai Cricket Club on the site of the former building within the Race Course.

A large number of members and guests attended and, at the conclusion of the little ceremony of cutting a tape, Gen. Macnaghten, president of the club, was presented with a silver salver by members of the club.

PRIZE FOR QUICKEST CENTURY

Sir Walter Lawrence, of Hyde Hall, Sawbridgeworth, Herts, has presented a trophy—to be known as the Lawrence Trophy—and a 100-guineas order on a London store to the batsman who scores a century in the shortest time in first-class cricket this season. The trophy will be competed for annually.

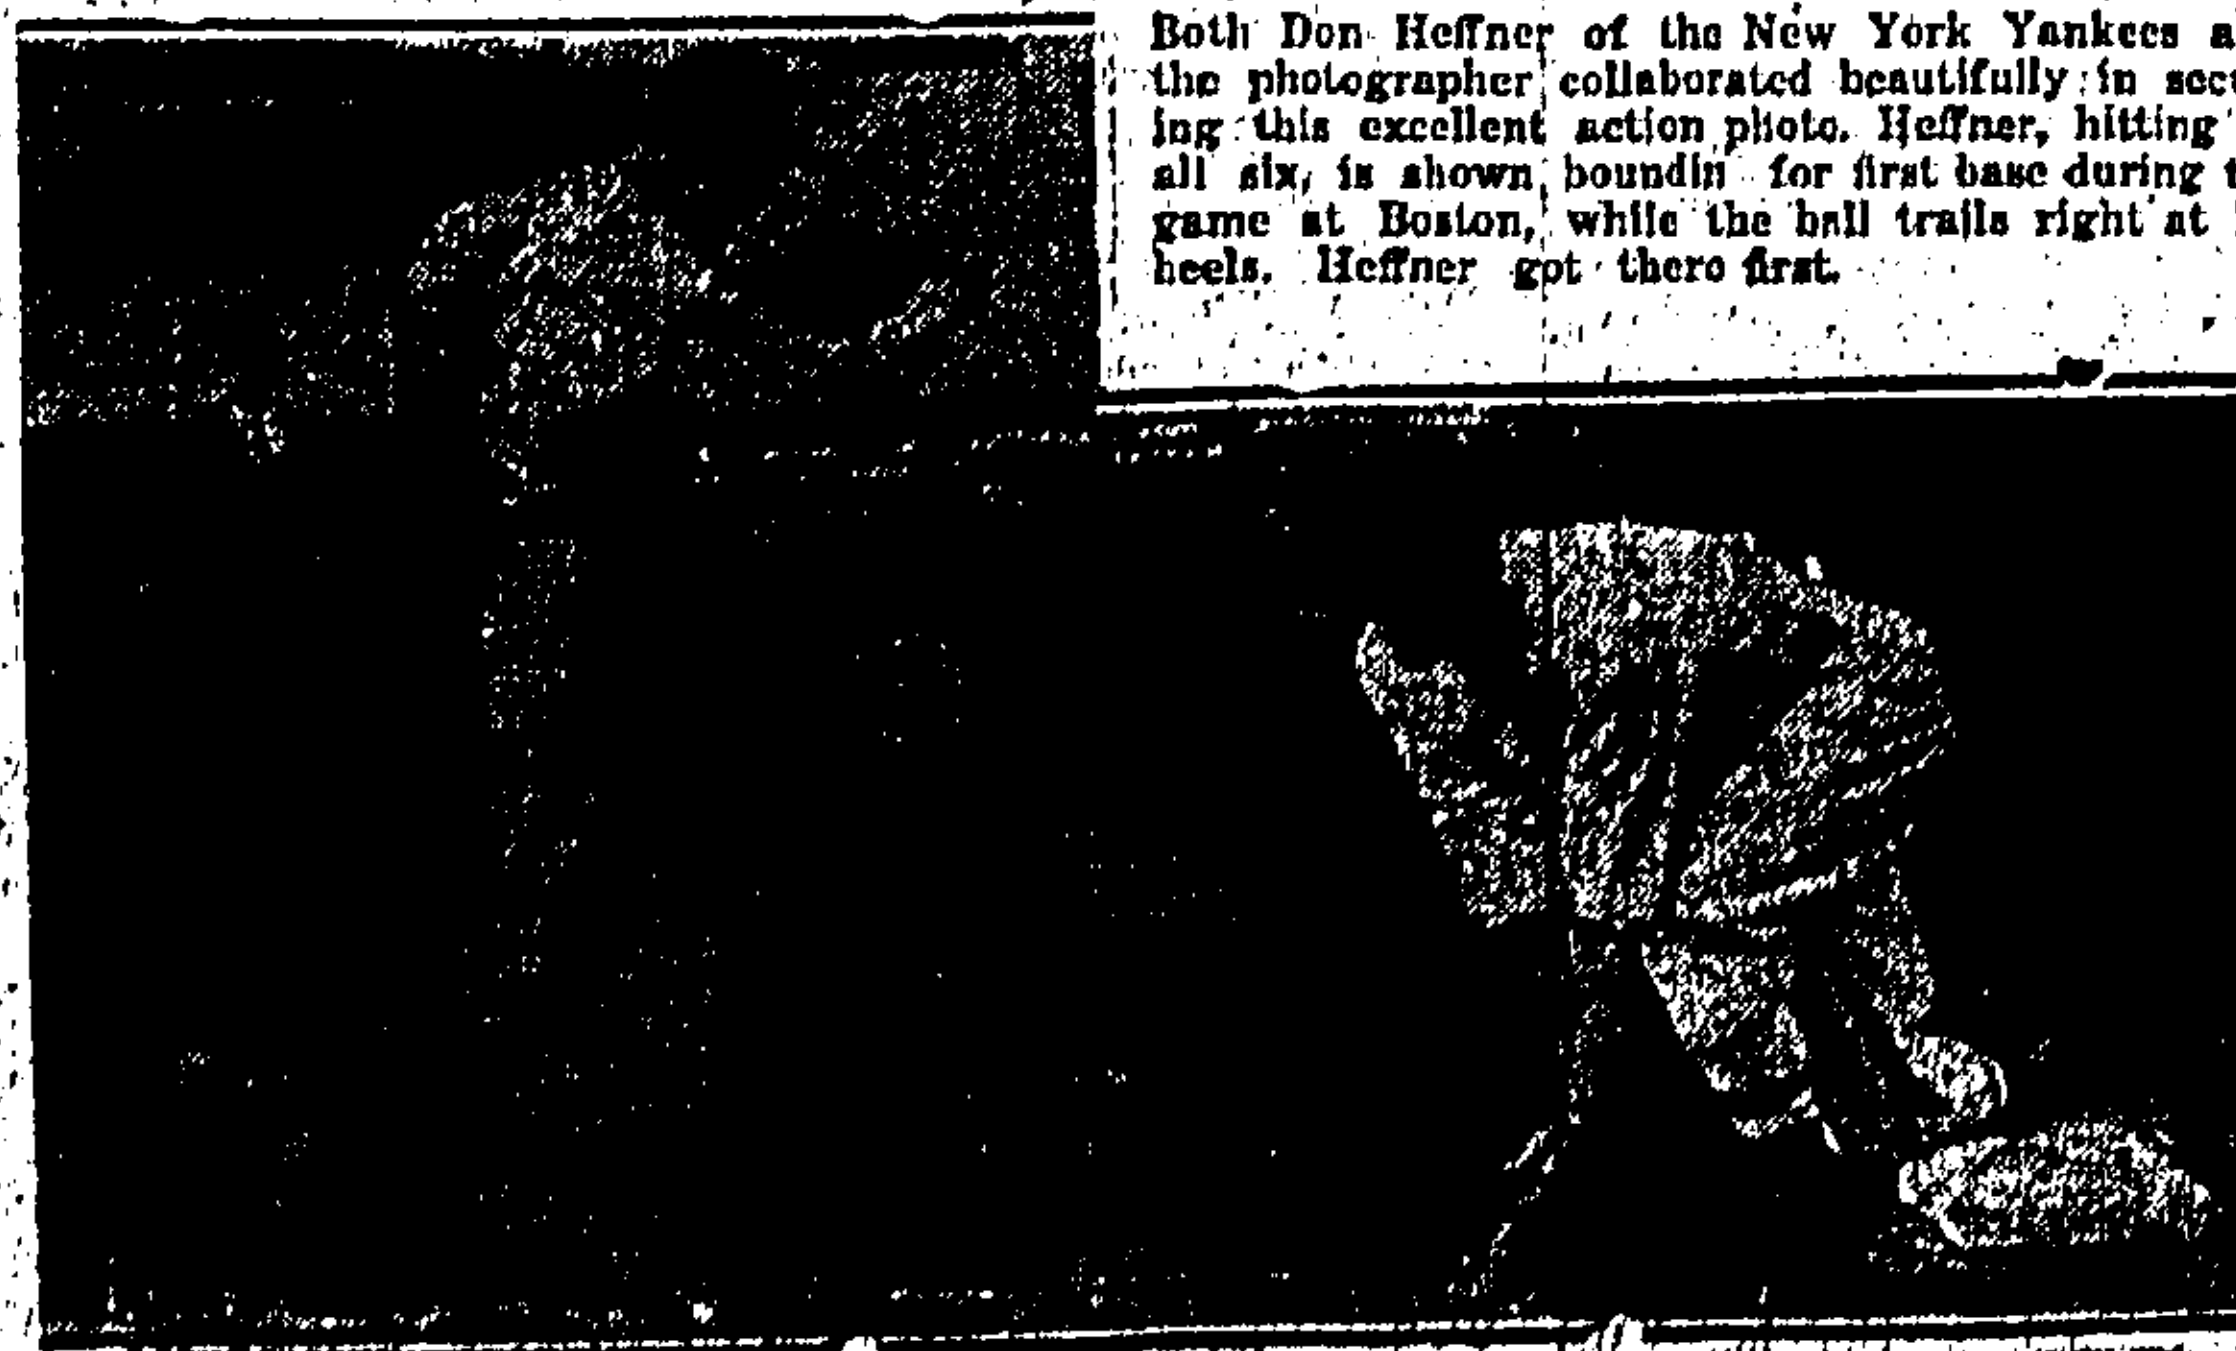

tournament of 1931.

Hammond is now the world's greatest all-rounder, Barnett's progress is heartening, and Parker is not yet by any means a spent force, for he took over a hundred wickets in an abnormally dry season. Several batsmen were disappointing last year, however, and B. H. Lyon, again the captain, hopes to be able to call more often on B. O. Allen, the Cambridge Blue, and G. W. Park.

Lord Tennyson has been succeeded as the Hampshire skipper by C. Lowndes, the old Etonian who got his Blue at Oxford in 1921. Apart from Lowndes, the county will be represented by the professionals, who have done well individually in recent years, but ought to have done better as a side. Mead, Kennedy, and Brown remind one of the brook in the poem by their late captain's grandfather—they look like going on for ever. Bailey is the only professional who has dropped out; he is now qualifying for Middlesex.

Two benefits have been arranged: by Gloucestershire for Hammond—the Bank Holiday match with the Hampshire at Bristol—and by Sussex for W. Cornford, who takes the Warwickshire match at Hove in July.

LITERARY NOTES

AUTHORS TO VISIT ENGLAND

Chris. Morley Expected This Summer.

Prospective visitors to England this June are the authors, Christopher Morley and Don Marquis.

Morley, a Johnsonian figure, as massive as he is benign, is founder and president of the American "Three-Hour-For-Lunch Club." One of the rules is that every member and every guest pays his share of the bill.

Morley's father, a Cambridge man, went to America 50 years ago to take up a professional appointment at Haverford. He is still alive and still a British subject.

Marquis, who lives in California, is the author of "Archy and Mehitabel," the biggest single volume best-seller of poetry after Kipling's Barrack Room Ballads.

Don Marquis has been only once in Europe. He came to study at first hand the methods of the professional card-sharper against whose wiles passengers on transatlantic liners are warned by huge notices.

Marquis took five hundred dollars which he was prepared to sacrifice for the sake of "copy." He found what he was sure was a real gang on the first night. True to the tradition, he won a few dollars.

He went on winning a little until the last night when he confidently expected to be fleeced of his last cent.

He won 800 dollars. As he landed at Southampton, he heard a voice behind him: "See that big American? He's professional card-sharper. I've played him."

SCOTTISH WINDS AND WITCHES

Narrative Of A Car Journey.

The Sunset Shore. By Iain F. Anderson. (Jenkins, 7s. 6d.).

This narrative of a trip from the Mull of Galloway to Cape Wrath in an 8 h.p. car and back again by boat makes a travel book of unusual interest.

Mr. Iain Anderson and his wife took this holiday along the western sea-bound coast of Scotland in early spring, when snow was on the hills and ice on the roads, but "The Sunset Shore" is no tale of grim endurance. Magnificent scenery is captured by both word and camera, and the snatches of folk lore make the past almost as vivid as the present.

In Ayrshire, many of the legends are concerned with the Devil—Auld Clotie to his intimates—who was the general consultant and adviser of all Ayrshire witches. Smuggling flourished right along the coast, and Mr. Anderson records hiding places known to this day as "brandy holes." Secret stills were established in most districts and there was much bloodshed among raiding parties. In one expanse of ben and glen the full moo was well-named "The Macfarlane Lantern."

STORY OF TRAGEDY AVOIDED.

Sincere Writing In New Novel.

"Orchards of the Sun" opens with the arrival of a young English couple at the Hotel d'Or, in the Provincial village of Beauvoir. Presently they meet an Irishwoman who lives near by with her niece Helen, and the result is an immediate and mutual attachment between Helen and the young Englishman.

Mr. Warren outlines with genuine feeling the growth of this especially when mention is made of passion, so that one accepts the inevitability of tragedy ahead, of a local legend about two frustrated lovers who jumped off adjacent cliffs.

Just when the reader is prepared for this variant of the "Ethan Frome" climax the modern lovers are impelled to a less fateful solution: of their difficulties; he must go back to his life (which includes his wife and a job in a gramophone studio), and Helen must go back to hers.

"Orchards of the Sun" does not quite achieve importance as a novel, but it is sincerely written and has moments of lyrical freshness that do not belie its title.

Cuba Mourns Illustrious Ex-President

Havana, Cuba. This scene in the home of the late Dr. Alfredo Zayas, one of Cuba's outstanding patriots and former President of the island Republic, shows Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, left, ex-provisional President, and other Cuban statesmen, standing beside the beloved Zayas' casket as the body rested in state prior to the impressive funeral ceremony. Zayas, who preceded Machado as President, was well-known as a historian and scholar. He died on April 11, at the age of 73. The son of a Spanish merchant, he received his start in political life with an appointment from the Spanish Government. Then in power in Cuba, his opposition to Spanish control resulted in his banishment to an African prison, where he was confined during the Spanish-American war. When Cuba won its freedom, Zayas returned and was active in politics until his retirement. He was elected President in 1920 and served four years.

Internment During The War
Grim Story Of Life In An Enemy Camp
A "CLASSIC OF CAPTIVITY"

(By HOWARD SPRING)

"Black Monastery," by Aladar Kunez (Chatto and Windus, 10s. 6d.), is a story of internment during the war. The author died three years ago. He was a Hungarian of Transylvania, which is now in Rumania. He was a man deeply moved by things of the spirit, and in the culture of the French people he found much that ministered to his deepest needs. School-teaching was his job, and during his holidays he delighted to read French poets and drink French wine and listen to the speech of French men and women.

In 1914 he went to Brittany. He was twenty-eight. During that holiday there happened what he calls "the world's gloomy change of scenery." He was not fortunate enough to scramble out of the country in time. Suddenly, from being a welcome guest, he became something loathsome, contemptible, something to be vaguely comprehended within the word "Boche," which he first heard muttered while he was on the way to Perigueux.

Perigueux was the first station of his detention. He and those who were to be interned with him came to the town tired and hungry. "A vast clamour of shouting received us.... At the price of stone-throwing, blows and spitting we came through the greater part of the crowd.... One pretty girl ran panting crazily beside our column." She shouted, "Don't give them anything to eat!" She spat at Mr. Kunez.

They did not stay long at Perigueux. They were taken to the sea coast and shipped to a small island lying off Vendee. On the island was the Black Monastery—Noirmoutier—"a mighty, forbidding fortress ringed round with walls and a moat." The keep stood four-square with a high tower at each corner. The place had last been used as a prison in 1870. It was running with moisture, dirty, not equipped with the most elementary sanitation.

Discrepant Assembly Here was interned the lover of France, whose transgression was that he had been holiday-making at the wrong time. With him were 240 others: a poor wretch who had been on his way back from an Esperanto congress in Spain; a remarkably large number of tanners who had been working in France; many waiters; teachers who had been holiday-making like Mr. Kunez; sculptors and painters for whom Paris's pre-eminence in the arts had been an unimpaired and fatal lure; travelling schoolboys; a couple of madmen, one of whom thought him-

STIRRING TRAVEL BOOK

From Peking To Inner Mongolia.

SOVIET ENCOUNTERS

Tents in Mongolia. By Henning

Haslund. (Kegan, 15s.).

This is an excellent book of travel and adventure, written by a young Dane, member of an expedition to the Steppe country of Central Asia. The story is presented with the utmost simplicity which aids rather than impedes the author's ability to bring before our eyes the scenes and the people among whom he dwelt.

The journey from Peking to Bulgun Tal, in the heart of Mongolia, was a difficult, perilous and heroic affair; and the efforts of the party, once they were settled, to make the wilderness blossom are related with all the gusto of the born pioneer.

Farming and fur-trading, the daily conduct and special celebrations of the people, their religious views and superstitious fear, the queer workings of their magic, their swift, sure way with horse and gun: all these things are told against a background which conditions all the action of the book.

There were at times difficult encounters with the Soviet authorities, and in time the difficulties became too great to leave the small Danish community any hope of success with their experiment; but the experiment was well worth while if only because it produced this lively and readable book.

ident and fine portraiture. There is a grand story of how, when the administrator of the prison threatened to bayonet a black mongrel that the men loved, the fool's life swung by a hair; a heart-breaking incident of the last parcels to come from home—"some ragged shirts, a few worn-out half-pairs of shoes, a dirty, wine-stained white waistcoat."

At first the men threw the things away in disgust, thinking some practical joker was abroad. Then the truth reached them; they picked up the scattered stuff, and the last men to take their parcels left the room as though they were leaving a house of mourning.

Decimated by madness and pestilence, the remnant at last set out to see if there was left a home they could return to. "There was no where the slightest demonstration of hostility. Rather only amazed pity. An old woman with a black head-dress kept on nodding her head and saying: 'Les pauvres! Les pauvres!'"

The world had learned a bit since the stone-throwing at Perigueux. So they came to Austria, where it became more and more sadly and insistently obvious that we were never again going to see the world we had left.

Kunez was not to see much more of any world, but he lived long enough to give us this record, which is hardly likely to be beaten in its own kind.

PRETTY KOWLOON WEDDING

Spanish And German Families United.

HEINEMANN-CAMPOS

The wedding took place at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, on Saturday of Mr. Helmut Heinemann, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Heinemann, to Miss Rosario Valdivia Campos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Campos Rueda, of 11, Hankow Road.

The Rev. Father Rossi officiated. Mr. Ernest Muck was best man and Miss Josephine Campos, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was dressed in a white Satin crepe dress with a long train and camellias of white velvet round the neck. A crown of Russian style with a depending veil set off her dress to advantage and matched the beautiful bouquet of white roses gathered in wide Chantilly lace.

The bridesmaid wore a pink lace dress trimmed with blue feathers with a hat to tone adorned with pink roses. She carried a pose of blue orchids matching the feathers.

The bride's mother attended in a dress of grey satin crepe with hat and shoes to tone.

Mrs. Concha Cuervo at the organ accompanied Mrs. Maria Inchausti who sang the Ave Maria by Lucan-toni.

A reception was held at the home of the bride after which Mr. and Mrs. Heinemann left for Cheung Chau, the bride's going away dress being of blue silk crepe with coat and cellophane hat and shoes to match.

Lizarraga also drew attention to the fact that the Company's bank account was in credit for $31.10 when it was closed by the Bank, and that on that day they had had $1,300, which would have been paid in.

Concluding, he said that the prosecution could not prove that the Standard Products Company was not a genuine business.

Judge's Summing Up.

Mr. Fraser then addressed the jury at length, recounting the evidence against the accused. On the second and third defendant declaring to make any address, His Lordship proceeded to sum up the case.

His Lordship drew attention to the decidedly suspicious fact that in the godown in Connaught Road, there was an apparently normal office, and a large stack of cases, all nailed down, giving the appearance of the prosperous warehouse. All these cases had proved to be empty, or else filled with straw. He also drew attention to the absence of Lai Sun-chan, whom the defence had maintained was the owner of the business. Even his address in No. 60, Jordan Road had been found to be bogus.

Large supplies of butter, sugar, Ovaltine, Palatol and whisky had been ordered, and then resold at less than wholesale prices. This was a common feature of fraud cases.

How Supplies Were Secured.

His Lordship asked the jury to consider the case of the third defendant with regard to the Ovaltine. On each occasion on which he had called at Messrs. Refs Massey and Company, he had done nothing but present a card, stating that his employers wished to know the price of Ovaltine, or to order Ovaltine.

His Lordship charged the jury to consider that Levitsky might be an employee who had become involved in the transactions without knowing their true nature. The case is proceeding.

Unarmed Britain.

Nineteen years have passed since the commencement of the great holocaust in which thousands of the flower of British manhood sacrificed their lives for the peace and security of their country. And at no time since then has the outlook of the cause for which that sacrifice was made appeared more uncertain than it does to-day. The total wreck of the disarmament scheme on which Great Britain had worked with unflinching earnestness and indomitable trust of other nations leaves civilisation in a state of bewildered anxiety as to what may happen next. In this uneasiness the British Empire must participate to its full share, perhaps more; because, if there is to be a Versailles treaty she has been loyally observing her disarmament obligations while other nations ignored theirs, Britain will have to start from behind the mark. The British Empire is dependent for its very existence on its lines of sea communication, and when we know that our cruiser forces are inadequate to protect those lines of communication we can scarcely be called alarmists. Only by those who kept their eyes shut to the position would such a term be employed.

That Britain must, set about bringing her cruiser strength up to safety standard is now a matter into which the question of cost cannot enter. Her existence is at stake. Whatever the obligations of any treaty may be, they cannot bind the British Empire to disarm while the other Powers concerned go on arming. That would be equivalent to suicide. And suicide was no part of any agreement into which the Empire has entered. Let the other Powers fulfil their disarmament obligations as Britain has already fulfilled hers. If they are unwilling to do that, what right would any of them have to complain about Britain rearming to an extent that would place the Empire in the same position of security as it was before she gave them the lead in disarmament which they refused to follow, and, as a consequence, now finds herself exposed to the risk of being starved to death in a few weeks after the outbreak of war? The Empire is now without sufficient cruiser force to protect its sea communications.

Cool-headedness under all circumstances is to be commended, but indifference, with the inertia arising out of it, is a different thing. Of the two extremes in this matter, the latter would be the worse. And that is the extreme from which danger seems most to be apprehended. While the Empire had command of the sea, to be caught napping elsewhere, as it was in 1914, might not lead to irretrievable disaster; but to be caught when an insufficient navy would for Britain be the end of everything.

The services justify their existence by preventing war, which is done by causing potential enemies to think often and think hard before taking the risk of attacking the country. The fighting services have had too much experience of war lately to want any more of it than can be avoided. The Duke of Wellington, who on this subject knew as much as most men, said he knew of nothing more horrible than winning a battle except losing it. But people do not leave their doors unlocked to prevent burglary, and for a country to leave itself without means of defence in an armed world is not the way to discourage invasion and avert war. War is like capital punishment, of which the witty Frenchman, when asked if he favoured abolishing it, said, "Yes, let the murderers begin." The most practical means of honouring the sacrifice is to see to it that those who died to defend the right of their country to live did not yield up their lives in vain.

Prospects In Canada.

Mr. Rhodes, the Canadian Minister of Finance, is budgeting for a small surplus in the current financial year without any increase of taxation. The past year ended with a deficit of $135,000,000, a substantial improvement on the results of the previous year. During the past twelve months, however, there has been a steady improvement in trade, and the higher prices and the expanding volume of business should be reflected in the revenue returns. The ordinary expenditure is being kept closely to last year's level; substantial reductions are anticipated in unemployment relief and to meet the deficit in the railway accounts; and the Minister feels therefore that he can count on a greatly improved Budget position next year without calling for any additional sacrifice from the taxpayer. He was able in his Budget speech to quote figures showing a remarkable revival since the bottom of the depression was touched thirteen or fourteen months ago. For the first three months of 1934 imports were forty per cent. greater, and exports fifty per cent. greater, than during the corresponding period of last year. The total external trade for the fiscal year just ended was valued at 1,017 million dollars.

A new Lithuanian air mail stamp has been issued. The design commemorates two transatlantic aviators, Captain Darius and Lieut. Girenas. They crashed to death in Germany on their way from New York to Kovno last summer.

They are regarded as national heroes in their own country. Their death was made an occasion of national mourning.

The stamp shows the Angel of Death brooding over the wreckage of a plane. Another of the series bears portraits of the heroes.

The Champagne Commissar

Herr von Ribbentrop, the newly appointed German Commissar for Disarmament, is described as Germany's mystery man.

There is, however, nothing mysterious about him. He married a Henckel, the daughter of the German champagne king, and is in the wine business. He pays frequent visits to London, where his firm has one or two agencies, and combines politics with the purchase of whisky.

He was the first member of German society to take up Herr Hitler in the days when Hitler was in the wilderness. He has reaped the reward of loyalty, for to-day he ranks with "Putzi" Hanstaengel as the closet of Hitler's personal friends.

Herr von Ribbentrop is tall, clean-shaven and good-looking. He acquired his "von" from a childless uncle who adopted him.

In the early days of the Nazi Revolution he was a strong "tip" for the London Embassy.

lars, as against 887 million dollars for the year 1932-33. Thanks to the Ottawa agreements Canadian trade with Great Britain has expanded, both in imports and in exports by twenty per cent. About a third of Canadian purchases abroad are now made in Empire countries, while in 1929 the proportion was only one-fifth. Mr. Rhodes recognized that complete recovery is dependent on constructive international co-operation, the outlook for which is not encouraging.

In the meantime it is reassuring to know that conditions in Canada as in the rest of the Empire are steadily improving, so that she will be able to play a more effective part in co-operation for the revival of world trade.

ENGLAND'S YEAR AT WIMBLEDON

BRITAIN ON TOP OF TENNIS WORLD

FINE PROSPECTS FOR 1934

(By Stanley N. Doust.)

London. WHO is going to win at Wimbledon this year?

This has been asked many times not only among ourselves but in those far-off countries that are hopefully sending their champions to do battle on the best grass tennis courts in the world for the greatest honour the game has to offer.

Things have changed in lawn tennis in the last few years. Who, for instance, would have answered this question five years ago by giving the name of an Englishman as the likely winner? He would have been thought either an optimist or a fool. Even two years ago the answer would have been one of doubt.

Some, like myself, thought the time at last had come and that 1932 was to be our golden year at Wimbledon. (I am referring to men's play). My view was quite logical. Had we not reached the challenge round of the 1931 Davis Cup, which we lost by only 3 rubbers to 27?

Both H. W. Austin and F. J. Perry had beaten the Americans who were that country's best players in the summer of 1931, and, up to Wimbledon of 1932, there were no performances against our men to convince me that they had not more than a good chance. As it happened, Austin did reach the final, but was beaten by Ellsworth Vines, the young American, who played an inspired game.

But ask the question this year and nine out of ten people will answer, "Perry, of course!"

The addition of the two words "of course" is to me most significant. They are so certain that he is to win the championship that they will not even argue about it. True, Britain is on the top of the lawn tennis world, and at the moment it does not seem a precarious position, because I think that even greater things than ever, since lawn tennis became an international game, will be done by English players this year.

Here is what I sincerely believe will happen this year:

- (1) An Englishman will win the men's singles at Wimbledon.
- (2) An Englishwoman will win the women's singles.
- (3) The finalists of the men's singles will both be English.
- (4) Great Britain will win from the United States the Wightman Cup, and
- (5) Great Britain will retain the Davis Cup.

Have I exceeded the bounds of reasonable optimism and become too venturesome in making these five states definitely, that she will not take part in any major competitions this year. She will therefore not defend her title at Wimbledon. It is on this important decision that I base my comments on the women's players. So many good women players are practically level that prophesying the winner is difficult.

Perry's Triumphs

Then he toured America and Australia. In New York he won the American championship, beating not only the best of the American players, but also in the final, no less a person than J. H. Crawford, holder of the Wimbledon and French championships, as well as the Australian.

Proceeding to Australia, Perry twice beat Crawford. (In five-set matches) in Melbourne for the Victorian championship and later, in the tour in Sydney, for the Australian championship. Perry, it might be said, has met and beaten his chief rivals for this year's Wimbledon honours in their own countries. To beat a champion on his own court and before his own people takes more doing in lawn tennis than any other game I know. So I suggest that Perry's performances do seriously justify my prediction that an Englishman will be the champion this year.

Will Perry be that Englishman? His defeat yesterday by young C. E. Hare is in no sense to be regarded as a symptom of his real form. My third prediction that two Englishmen will be the finalists must now be taken into consideration. My nominee—again "of course"—is H. W. Austin.

Now Austin might conceivably beat Perry should they meet in the final. They are so close to each other that one might win one day and the other the next, and had it been Austin who had journeyed to the United States and Australia he probably would have triumphed as Perry did.

It must be admitted here that Austin is going to have a harder task to reach the final than Perry for this reason. Under the "seeding" system Crawford, as the holder of the championship, will be placed in a different half from Perry, and, under the same arrangement, Austin and Perry must be kept apart until the final.

Crawford's Chances

Therefore it follows that Austin and Crawford will be placed so as to meet in the semi-final (provided that they are not beaten before). Crawford, although he acknowledged to me that Austin was a very great player, does not fear Austin as he does Perry. Perry's bustling and lasting powers worry Crawford more than the classical style and strokes of Austin. Yet, owing to Crawford's defeats, lately—and in his own country—he will conceivably not have the same all-round confidence that he had last year.

But I sincerely hope that Crawford, one of the best players ever to have won at Wimbledon, will be in his topmost form and that he and Austin may meet each other. If so, it would be a wonderful semi-final, because both players are the acme of perfection in stroke production.

America will send us S. B. Wood, F. X. Shields, F. Parker (the eighteen-year-old boy), and W. Allison. Other players may be nominated later.

Australia is sending Crawford, V. G. McGrath, who is only 18 and who ran Perry to five sets in the Australian championship and twice beat him in three-set matches. H. C. Hopman, A. Quist, and D. Turnbull. Japan is sending two new men, France will depend on A. Merlin, C. Bousquet, and Jean Borotra as its chief support.

As well, there will be players from twenty-five other nations, but, to my mind, the two Englishmen, Austin and Perry, are easily the most outstanding players among them all. Incidentally, it is twenty-five years since the late A. W. Gore beat M. J. G. Ritchie in the final at Wimbledon; and he was the last Englishman to win the championship.

Mrs. Wills Moody, who on account of ill-health was not selected to represent the United States in the Wightman Cup match on June 15, states definitely, that she will not take part in any major competitions this year. She will therefore not defend her title at Wimbledon. It is on this important decision that I base my comments on the women's players. So many good women players are practically level that prophesying the winner is difficult.

STOKERS DESERT H.M.S. SUFFOLK

Result Of Hoax By Darwin Wag.

LOOKING FOR MELBOURNE

'Darwin, Northern Territory. The Darwinian sense of humour was responsible for depriving H. M. S. Suffolk, which recently visited the port of several stokers. One of the wits of the town told the stokers that Melbourne lay 40 miles south of Darwin; and that the distance could be covered in a day.

Incredible as it may appear, one or two of the stokers took the man's word, and having a mind to see an Australian City, stowed away on the weekly train. They covered 140 miles, keeping a sharp lookout for the first signs of the city. Eventually they left the train at the 76 miles mark, sliding, presumably, to search for Melbourne. They are now reported to be in the vicinity of Pine Creek. Reuter.

Evidence By Police Magistrate

Judge Summing Up In Long Fraud Trial.

LIZARRAGA ADDRESSES JURY

Mr. E. W. Hamilton, the Police Magistrate was this morning called on to give evidence for the defence in the trial of Jose Lizarraga, Wong Sau-mo and Nicholas Levitsky, alias Lemon, who are charged on thirteen counts of conspiracy to defraud, and of fraud, before His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. McGregor at the Supreme Court.

Mr. Fraser is conducting the case for the Crown, and the defendants are unrepresented.

The jury empanelled are Mr. E. J. Leitas (foreman) and Messrs. E. W. Coulson, Fung Chik-mun, Richard Shim, Ng Chu-ping, Cheung Kit-sang and H. Saurbeck.

The trial reached the final stages this morning when Lizarraga, on behalf of the defendants, addressed the jury. Mr. Fraser placed his case before the jury, and His Lordship commenced his summing up.

Magistrate's Evidence.

On the application of Lizarraga, Mr. E. W. Hamilton, who committed defendants for trial, was called to give evidence. His Lordship ruled that, although it was unusual to call a witness at this stage of the case, in view of the fact that the defendants were unrepresented, it was only fair that every evidence on their behalf should be heard.

Questioned by His Lordship if, when conducting the case at the Magistrate's, he had formed an opinion of the evidence of the manager of the Sui Tai Firm, which he had expressed in Court, Mr. Hamilton said:

"I certainly formed an opinion about him, but as to the expression I used I cannot swear."

His Lordship: "The suggestion of the first accused is that you characterized the witness as a liar."

Mr. Hamilton: "That is too sweeping a statement. I actually rebuked the witness for equivocating."

An extra witness for the prosecution, Kwong King-lee of No. 60 Jordan Road, was called.

Replying to a question from Mr. Fraser, he stated that he had never heard of Lai Sun-chun. Lai Sun-chun is stated by the defence to have been the proprietor of the Standard Products Company, and is said to have lived at No. 60, Jordan Road.

Lizarraga's Defence.

Lizarraga addressed the jury, outlining the events which led up to the birth of the Standard Products Company. Offices were rented in St. George's Building, an office and godown at No. 20, Connaught Road Central, and a shop at No. 94, Nathan Road, Kowloon.

These premises were all fitted up for the business of ship-chandling.

Regarding the transactions with Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Messrs. Relas, Massey and Co., and other firms, Lizarraga drew attention to the fact that most of these firms had offered them credit for far larger amounts of supplies than had been ordered. "If we had intended to defraud," he said, "why should we not have taken as much as we could get?"

HONG KONG CYCLING CLUB.

Report Of Week-End Activities.

SHATAUKOK TRIP NEXT WEEK

Owing to the illness of the Hon. Secretary, Mr. H. G. Crayford, no report of the Hong Kong Cycling Club's run on May 20 was made. The run was carried out under the guidance of Mr. H. A. G. Kentes, and, in addition to a pleasant ride and bathe, an interesting "hike" was enjoyed in the Castle Peak vicinity.

No official run having been arranged for the members yesterday, covered the Hong Kong Island circuit, bathing at two of its beaches. The attendance, however, was not so large as usual.

Next week's run will be led by the Captain, Mr. C. Read, who will leave the Star Ferry at 9 a.m. He intends to visit Shataukok, and will return to Kowloon at 2 p.m. approximately. All interested cyclists are invited to participate.

POLICE REWARD.

Murder Of Special Guard.

A reward of $500 has been offered by the police authorities for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the man, or men, who shot Special Police Guard, Mohamed Din, through the head with his own revolver, at Bowen Road last week.

DETECTIVE "DROPS" INTO CASE.

Pawnbroker Almost Disillusioned.

Sentence of one month's hard labour was imposed on Ng Po, unemployed, of No. 26 Portland Street, by Mr. M. W. Thomson, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for attempting to obtain $3.50 by false pretences from the Tung Tai Pawnshop, No. 532 Queen's Road, West, yesterday.

The accused offered a pair of silver earrings, plated with gold, to the pawnbroker, Lo Wai-ying, saying that they were solid gold.

Accused was arrested when he was accosted by a Chinese detective who was at the shop at the time.

CATTLE BOY RUN OVER BY TRAIN.

Straying Water-Buffalo Responsible.

Yuen Chi-yick, a cattle boy, residing at Lo Wu Village, New Territory, was killed yesterday when knocked down by the 4.20 p.m. train for Canton.

The boy was rushed to the Kowloon Hospital suffering from serious injuries from which he died at 11 p.m.

It was reported that the boy went after a water-buffalo which had wandered across the track, and was knocked down by the train near the village.

FRENCH CRUISER DUE TO-MORROW.

Rear-Admiral Richard On Board.

The French cruiser Primauguet, flagship of the French Fleet in the Far East, is due here to-morrow morning at 9 a.m. flying the flag of Rear-Admiral Richard.

Rear-Admiral Richard took over the duties of C-in-C. of the French Fleet in the Far East following the sudden death of Vice Admiral Descottes-Fenoni whilst on the way to Shanghai.

Rear-Admiral Richard was formerly Commodore stationed at Saigon, a post now held by Capt. Demotes-Mainard, former Captain of the Primauguet.

BATHERS ACTIVE DESPITE COLD

Decided Temperature Drop On Sunday.

What was probably the final cold spell of the season was experienced over the week-end when moderate north-east winds and occasional showers produced a pleasant decline in temperature.

In spite of the chilly winds, the bathing beaches on both the island and mainland were visited by thousands who thoroughly enjoyed the mild weather and cool dip. Motor traffic in the direction of all the beaches was as heavy as during last week-end which was favoured with bright sunshine.

The change in temperature was even more noticeable when it is considered that the highest temperature for this month was recorded last Wednesday with 90.1 degrees. The highest temperature yesterday was only 79, with a minimum of 74 degrees. The lowest reading for the month was recorded on the first day, with 65.9 degrees.

Although unusual for this time of the year, the temperature is by no means abnormal.

MENACING DEMAND FOR MONEY.

Woman Assaulted.

Two unemployed men, Ho Kam and Chung Sum, were charged before Mr. M. W. Thomson at the Central Magistracy this morning on two charges, of demanding money by menaces, and of assaulting Ng Sam-mui, a woman.

In defending the charges, Ho Kam said that he had supplied milk for the complainant's daughter for over a year, and that he was only asking for the return of the money, which was over $100.

Ho Kam was fined $5, in default seven days' imprisonment, for assaulting the woman, while Chung was discharged.

Inspector Fender prosecuted.

DOG CUT UP READY FOR COOKING.

Woman Gaoled.

Charged at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning with stealing by finding a dog collar, and with keeping a dog without a licence, a woman named Leung Lin, of No. 495, Reclamation Road was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, on the first count and fined $10, in default 14 days, on the second count.

A dog was cut up ready for cooking in the premises at Reclamation Road, and dog-meat was served on the table for a meal.

72-YEAR-OLD WIDOW HURT BY TRAM

Chan See, a widow, aged 72 years, was removed to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday, suffering from head injuries, sustained, when she was knocked down by a tram car, No. 30, in Johnstone Road.

Today's Short Story.

THE MAN WHO SAW WITHIN

By Eric Ambrose

HE waddled along the road, deep in thought, a portly little man unaccustomed to walking, and it was only when he came to a dwarf brick wall barring his progress that he took notice of his surroundings.

Now he did take notice, because that brick wall should not have been there.

It was about three feet high and divided the gardens of the large building in front of him from the road. But what was the building doing there? That, too, should certainly not have been there, nor should the gardens, nor the wall.

Why, of course—he had taken the wrong turning. He laughed. It was hardly likely that such an enormous building had sprung up overnight. He had driven down Upper George-street ten times a week for as many years.

Well, he couldn't go any farther, so he had better turn back. That at least was logical, and so he turned and walked in the opposite direction. Funny how people lived in London yet never took the trouble to acquaint themselves with the place. Here was a first-class institute of some kind, museum or art gallery, and he didn't know what it was, though he must have passed within a few hundred yards of it every day.

Then suddenly it occurred to him that it was strange that he should have taken the wrong turning, because Upper George-street was perfectly straight and he should have come to Baker-street. He stopped, looked around him, puzzled. Where on earth was he? Just in front of him were cross-roads and he walked on till he could read the street name. Yes, there it was, clear as enough, "Upper George-street," and Gloucester-place. There, farther down the road, was Bryanston-square, he could recognise it quite plainly. He turned round. Yes, there was the institute, perfectly dignified and solid. Was he completely mad?

If a man started to walk along Upper George-street, beginning at Edgware-road, he would first come to Seymour-place and then Bryanston-square, and, continuing, he would come to Baker-street. Yes, that was quite definite. He turned round facing east. Yes, quite definite, unless he was quite mad, because in front of him was still the art gallery or institute or whatever it was.

He wondered for the moment whether he had lost his memory and forgotten the intervening years during which some one had ordered this immense classical edifice to be erected in Upper George-street.

Whatever was the true solution, he was hungry, he wanted to get home, and Baker-street was the best place to catch a bus. Curse his folly in telling his man he would not need the car—it had been a crackbrained whim on his part even suppose he was getting fat.

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "The Sleeping Partner," by Rolf Bennett.

The best thing to do would be to ask someone. Heavens, his brain was certainly working slowly—why hadn't he thought of such a simple thing before? Again he turned slowly in the direction of Bryanston-square because there was no one between himself and the large classical building. But then there was nobody in the street at all—nobody, no vehicles, everything was deadly quiet.

He walked along till he came to Gloucester-place and looked along it. Not a soul in sight. But even more strange, Gloucester-place was a cul-de-sac and not a person, not even a stray animal was to be seen. Not even a stationary car. Deserted, and this was five o'clock on a working afternoon.

So he walked back to the square. Not a soul there either. He was worried, and walked on, increasing his pace. Round the west side, to discover there was no outlet. Then round the north side. No outlet to where he thought Crawford-street should have been. On to the east side and back to the south side, to have made the astounding discovery that Bryanston-square was a cul-de-sac as well.

Panic came upon him. He ran on along Upper George-street, towards Edgware-road and back again because it was a cul-de-sac and there was no way out to Edgware-road. Then he stopped and put his hand to his head, which was throbbing with a deep regular beat. Still there was not a soul to be seen. He felt like a very small animal caught in a trap, and for the first time realised the horror of the deep uncanny silence and its oppressiveness.

He felt as though he were on the edge of a precipice and that if he did not tread warily he would fall headlong. Or perhaps the street behind would close in upon him or the houses topple and crash, and this idea seemed to take possession of him as he hurried along Upper George-street towards the institute, his foot-steps on the paving stones alone breaking the silence of the deserted street. He knew that he must go into that building.

Something had happened, perhaps he was mad or dead, or perhaps he was under an anaesthetic. People imagined strange things under the knife, they said.

But whatever was wrong with him, he had to go into that building, and at last he came to the dwarf boundary wall and stopped. He was hungry and that showed he wasn't dead, and if he wasn't dead he was a free agent and could therefore do what he liked.

Slowly he turned to his left where there was a gap in the wall, in the very middle of the road. Up the three steps to the path across the gardens. Across the terrace with the fountain in the centre with its strangely carved spout, a silent fountain from which it seemed water had never gushed forth; up three more steps to the colonnaded loggia and on to the big swing doors.

Supposing they were locked, what then could he do? But they were not locked, and he passed through them. He would ask the attendant what was happening, what it was all about. There was no attendant.

Britain has three representatives in Fred Perry, who has beaten Crawford on the last four occasions that they have met in any Final, Bunny Austin, and Pat Hughes, while Roderigue Menzel, the Czechoslovakian ace, is another quarter-finalist.

The surprise of the day's play yesterday was the defeat of Vivian McGrath, Australian boy prodigy, by Menzel in straight sets.

Crawford, who will also defend his mixed doubles title with Margaret Scriven, the British left-hander, dropped his first set to Sleem, the Indian Davis Cup player, and was extended to 12 games in the third set.

RECOVERY OF MANCHUKUO FROM JAPAN

Chiang Kai-Shek's Confidence.

ULTIMATE VICTORY IN SIGHT

Nanchang, May 22.

Confidence in China's ability eventually to recover Manchuria and Jehol province from Japan was expressed by General Chiang Kai-shek, president of the national military affairs commission, in the course of the weekly memorial service at military headquarters here.

"After China has re-organized and strengthened her armies, rehabilitated her economic structure and revived the national spirit," said Gen. Chiang, who is called the virtual dictator of China, "we firmly believe we can recover our lost territories in the northeast."

NATIONAL WELFARE.

He deplored that, although the Chinese army is the largest in the world from the standpoint of numbers, only a portion is devoting itself to the welfare of the nation.

"When, however," he went on, "the entire Chinese army is converted into a national army, in fact as well as in name, and employed for the suppression of banditry and resistance against foreign invasion, as eventually it must be, there is hope that much can be achieved which now seems impossible."

Remarkable improvement in the domestic political situation has been achieved during the last four months, Gen. Chiang said.

Proof of this, he pointed out, may
